Design contest

In the past months, KIK-KID ran a design contest for children between four and twelve years old. They were challenged to create a KIK-KID outfit, totally to their own liking of course. Out of more than two hundred contestants, the jury drew not three, but four winners. Nine year old Zara Berkhoff designed the winning dress. This dress is now part of the collection for Summer 2011 and it's specially manufactured in Zara's size. Besides this winning design, a second and two third prizes were chosen. The contest proved a succes for both jury and contestants!

New Born

KIK-KID's line of baby clothing is good in all aspects. These clothes are carefully shaped to fit with durable fabrics that are gentle to the skin, so your baby will be dressed comfortable and trendy from the very start of its life. Fabrics are composed of biologically grown material, clothes are manufactured with respect for nature and workers.

The New Born collection comes in five different sizes: KIK-KID added the smallest size 50 to the collection for the really small newly born. Sizes grow with the baby through 56, 62, 68 and 74 (centimetres of body length). The heart of this collection consists of a wrap dress, wrap shirt, a pair of ankle-long trousers, shorts, a jumpsuit and of course the distinctive KIK-KID hat.

Collection

Children's clothing by KIK-KID comes in sizes 50 through 152, for boys and girls aged 0-12. Next summer sees fresh colours joined with unexpected use of fabrics. Like every year a range of easy-to-wear, easy-to-wash uni fabrics are applied: french knit, viscose and terry. Still, KIK-KID will surprise you with fun prints and pattern jerseys: stripes, tartans, prints with stars and plant leaves match in this collection's style.

Eyecatchers in next summer's line are wide-stitched paddings, shoulder details, a lot of stars and studs in a sporty flair. Asymmetric forms, mad prints like the rooster or striped knittings make this collection stand out.

The collection shows hints of a revival of the 80's, appearant in details like piping and colour panels.

Another comeback appearance is by double sided hairy fleece, as applied in 'Speedy' hats and summer coats.
